

'Full House' to-morrow

AFTER a disappointing start, "Poison Pen," by the Amateur Operatic and Dramatic Society, is having a successful week's run at the Regent Theatre, Chelmsford. Audiences have been increasing all the week as the quality of the acting became known.

Mr. W. Matthews, Manager of the Regent, told the "Newsman-Herald" this morning that audiences have been "most appreciative."

"Numbers have run into thousands," he said, "and for to-morrow evening's performance all seats are booked up—not a place left in the house."
